Helping You to find Your Way

We help our private clients to match their growth and investment strategies by listening to their inputs, understanding their unique needs and providing them investment advice ; together we formulate operationally viable and economically sound solutions. We strive for a long-term close working relationship with each client.

As either a private or corporate client, you are provided with our extensive financial and industry experience, our structured processes and introduced to our business partner networks and or professional colleagues as need be.

Buss & Roth has unique expertise to help you reach your investment goals. On behalf of corporate clients, we assist in helping you meet your strategic growth requirements – project financing, partnerships or Mergers & Acquisitions.

“By working closely with our private clients, we are in a unique position to understand their investment needs. For companies, we help in their capital & growth requirements with respect to their financing needs.”

You / We / Us : Finding Solutions Together

The Buss & Roth team comes from the industries it is involved in – that means we have both knowledge and partnerships which can be leveraged to help clients. It also means that we understand the language of your business.

- We are not and cannot be experts in every area nor do we pretend to be. We do however work with partners in various legal, tax and investment disciplines and can call upon outside expertise depending on the client’s needs.
- Despite the market meltdown of 2008, it is our belief that the overall investment markets are a must for today’s clients to participate in – not because we are market bulls, but because the socio-political monetary environment has produced an environment where pure savers will be at a disadvantage – market participation does not mean blindly following the crowd. We at Buss & Roth provide critical contrarian thinking about how best when and where to be in the markets.
- At Buss & Roth we have invested extensively in building a network of business partners and service providers for various industries. While we do help facilitate the access to capital for your projects, and work with you closely in understanding your business, we may also be in a position to help you partner to various geographic markets or interested business partners.

Exactly this is the remit of Buss & Roth – to benefit our clients by facilitating our investment knowledge and to leverage our extensive network of professional colleagues and business partners.

Come Join Us and Grow...

Buss & Roth is a European based financial advisory services company assisting and guiding private clients in their investment choices. Likewise, we assist companies in their search and match for capital resources primarily within the sectors : commodity/energy, retail, real estate, infrastructure and technology ; including business partnerships and Mergers & Acquisitions.

Growing your personal wealth or financing your business but only under the right circumstances and with the right partners. Let Buss & Roth work with you and assist you in developing your wealth goals. For corporate clients, we will work with you to understand your business parameters and introduce you to a larger network of partners and professional colleagues and potentially open up new doors to prosperity and success. We cannot promise “instant success” but we can promise you experience, integrity and an “open door policy” for discussions of your business requirements without obligation.

Likewise, you may wish to partner with us in Master Frame Agreements for helping your business gain broader exposure. We have an extensive business network and may be able to help you expand your business reach.
